

An Awayday to remember!

It could be your annual conference, a new product launch, a quarterly review. Whatever the reason, we can design team sessions to meet what you need and make the occasion memorable.

"I have seen many of these events but this was by far the best!"

"We have received feedback from many people saying how much they enjoyed the day"

We have found that . . .

Teams can learn quickly and become closer through fun yet challenging activities

Interaction is the key

People learn best when there is also an element of fun!

Our events enable peoples' skills and qualities to be revealed in a positive light

What is experienced at our events transfers directly back to the workplace

Who we are

CTS specialises in the development of people and improvement of business processes. We are based in Maidenhead and have been in business for over ten years.

Our principal consultants are Robert Newcome, Laurence Davidson, and Nick Cooke. We draw on a few trusted associates when their specific skills and background experience are needed.

We work for many organisations as varied as Ordnance Survey, BOC, A2Dominion, Danone, Medical Research Council

What we can design and lead for you

We meet with you to understand what you want to achieve from your event. We then come up with a series of options to meet that outcome.

For example, our programmes can include

- Short, challenges related to the key messages of the day
- Tasks which build relationships across related teams
- Activities which breakdown hierarchies
- Exercises which are just for fun!
- Facilitated planning sessions
